How Sincere Are You?

Just how sincere are you? How honest, how pure, how reliable, how trustworthy are you? Thank about those important characteristics and consider the original meaning of the word "sincere."

Sincere is an old Latin word that meant "without wax" It originated when ancient Romans needed a word to verify that a piece of porcelain or pottery was whole, without cracks or flaws which had been covered over with hot wax.

Those wanting "sincere" pieces would hold the objects up to the sun to let the light shine through them to make certain they were not defective.

One suspects that the light of Christ shining through most of us might reveal embarrassing flaws in our character. Yet no doubt we would also discover that there was a lot of soundness as well. The goal is to move away from insincerity and hypocrisy and allow Christ to help us become completely whole and sincere.

Integrity

It’s important for young people to honor their beliefs

Tips for building this asset

Be a role model for the young people in your life: Think about what you believe in and value. Is it being a good friend? Helping vulnerable people? Honesty? Education? Health? Ask yourself whether your daily actions show you are true to yourself and your values. Confidence, trust, and respect are a direct result of integrity, and there are many ways adults can help young people foster these characteristics.

Also try this

In your home and family: Talk with your child about a belief or value you admire and respect in him or her. Brainstorm ways to provide support and positive feedback when your child acts with integrity.

In your neighborhood and community: If you notice a young person who is being teased for not doing something considered “cool,” because it goes against his or her values, praise the young person for his or her integrity.

In your school or youth program: Ask students or participants to tell about a time when they acted with integrity, even though

Please visit www.parentfurther.org for references. NICM is a partner with The Search Institute.

Thank you for worshipping with us today. Please fold and tear at perforation your “Get Connected” card and place in the collection plate.
